THE GROVE, Nov. 4, 1861.

Editor Oregonian:

"It is an ill bird that defiles its own nest," it is said. This thought checks me as I begin to write a line for the Oregonian on the subject of the roads. One cannot say a word about them without directly or indirectly, implicating the good sense and the enterprise of his neighbors as well as Himself. Yet it is time that we all told the plain truth to ourselves. The roads from Portland to the Plains are a disgrace to town and the country. It is a great mistake to suppose that either is exclusively responsible. The country depends upon the market afforded by Portland: and Portland exists to-day, while other townbeginnings have failed—because it has the the Tualtin Plains behind it. If Astoria had half the open country back of it that Portland has, the latter place would not now be what it is, or have the prospects that it now has. This advantage that each derives from the other can be doubled by the construction of even a decent turnpike.

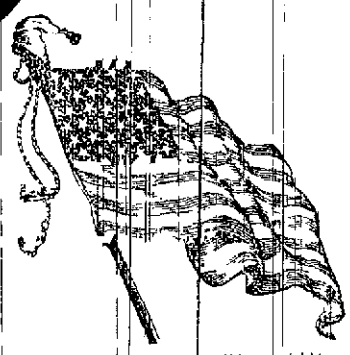
Ninety-nine hundredths of the farmers who have wagoned into Portland for ten years past, will say that the canyon is the place for the road. Although most think that it should be re-located in some places. Is there not some way in which the public can be stirred up to the importance of making a good road from Portland, through the timber to Wilkin's bridge?

We have here one of the pleasantest cities in the world, and of the healthiest places in Oregon, and in spite of discouragements, have kept increasing slowly. Now that the success of Portland in securing an immense trade is certain to have placed the stamp of the college beyond a peradventure, there is no reason why we may not expect an increased growth; and really we think that there is no place where a man wishing to educate his family could settle to better advantage.

The college and academy are entirely distinct in their management—are in separate buildings. Mr. Tanner who has charge of the academy, though a new comer to Oregon, has already established a high reputation as a teacher. He is a graduate of Illinois college—took first rate standing as a scholar, and came to Oregon expressly to take a Professorship in the college—after two or three years employment as Principal of the academy.—The college now has a library of over 4,000 volumes. Of the institution I may write another day.

Next topic—Our Wire—Swimming Belts. A curious application for the use of the army is just [illegible] at Paris. It consists of a swimming belt in an entirely new principle. An inflated rubber tube [illegible] fitting closely about the waist, is [illegible] into a number of small air cells, so that, in case of accident to one or two of these, the apparatus would be [illegible] sufficiently buoyant to support the weight of the wearer. The [illegible] is [illegible] by the escape of the air in the [illegible] to the [illegible] of the wearer. The [illegible] is [illegible] by the [illegible] of the [illegible] [illegible] [illegible]

Daily Oregonian.



FRIDAY MORNING, NOVEMBER 18

Senator for Oregon

The Advertiser of yesterday announces the appointment by Governor Whitaker of Benjamin Stark, Esq., of this city, to represent the United States in place of Gen. Baker, deceased.

We do sincerely regret having to take issue to make against Mr. Stark as a political opponent; but we do feel that in his appointment to the Senator, a grievous wrong has been done to the people of Oregon and the United States. Mr. Stark stands here in public estimation as an avowed secessionist—believes secession is right—that the South is right—that the South will succeed in the war against the government—and, indeed it is said he has declared that "we have no government and that "if he could sell his property he would remove and join the South." He has been outspoken against the government and his declarations of loyalty to it have long shocked the patriotic citizens who have listened to him. We believe it to be a truth that our loyal citizens have no more confidence in him than they have in Breckinridge, or Bright or others that we might name who are acting with the rebels or who have deserted the country and gone to their camps for protection.

It is in view of all the facts in this case known to most of our citizens that we say this appointment is most unfortunate and disgraceful to our State. Could not Governor Whitaker find among his friends one competent man true to the Union and to the government in its efforts to preserve that Union who would not with those democrats in Congress who have given their hearts and hands to the cause? Has more treasonable sympathy with his friends that such a man could be found of his party within the circle of his knowledge?

A man of Mr. Stark's views can do nothing in Congress for this State. His influence will always be against our welfare. In the Senate he will find many sympathizers. Breckinridge has gone to the enemy—he has proposed to absent himself purposely from his State—Powell will be requested to leave the Senate—and the three traitors in the gallery House are fair candidates for close quarters and worse than all—we have reason to believe that if the new Senator can procure himself at Washington a pass to Dixie, he will shape his course at Fort La Fayette. What in addition to shame can we bring on our State?

We have made these remarks because they are due to the loyal members of this State and they are due to our people. A majority of the citizens of Oregon are loyal men. They have been wronged by this appointment. But thank God Oregon will submit only for a time to the degradation which she now feels in the knowledge.

THE CHECO INDIANS.—Gradually we are learning more of the Indians which we have taken from the Pacific. We think that the Indian was the origin of the State name of Douglas. Douglas street is named after him, and it is said that the following words are taken from the Chinook language:

Douglas has said to the Democratic party was that the Democrats shall not war as they have done every time the Union has been in danger. Douglas has said that we should fight with all the laws of nations and of war, and that we should not fight with the laws of nations and of war, and that we should not fight with the laws of nations and of war, and that we should not fight with

FRIDAY MORNING, NOVEMBER 8, 1861.

Senator for Oregon.

The Advertiser of yesterday announces the appointment, by Governor Whitaker, of Benjamin Stark, Esq., of this city, as Senator of the United States, in place of Gen. Baker, deceased.

We desire to say that we have no complaints to make against Mr. Stark as a gentleman; but we do feel that in his appointment as Senator, a grievous wrong has been done to the people of Oregon and the United States. Mr. Stark stands here in public estimation as an avowed secessionist—believes secessionism is right—that the South is right—that the South will succeed in the war against the government—and indeed, it is said he has declared that "we have no government," and that "if he could sell his property he would remove and join the South." Indeed, he has been open mouthed against the government, and his declarations of hostility to it have long shocked the patriotic citizens who have listened to him. We believe it to be a truth that our loyal citizens have no more confidence in him than they have in Breckinridge, or Bright, or others that we might name, who are acting with the rebels or who have deserted the country and gone to their camps for protection.

It is in view of all the facts in this case, known to most of our citizens, that we say this appointment is most unfortunate and disgraceful to our State. Could not Governor Whitaker find among his friends one competent man true to the Union—to the government in its efforts to preserve that Union, who would act with those democrats in Congress, who have given their hearts and hands to the cause? Has moral treason gone so far with his friends that such a man cannot be found of his party within the circle of his knowledge?

A man of Mr. Stark's views can do nothing in Congress for this State. His influence will always be against our welfare. In the Senate he will find no sympathizers. Breckinridge has gone to the enemy—Bright is supposed to absent himself purposely from his State—Powell will be requested to leave the Senate—and the three traitors in the other House are fair candidates for close quarters; and worse than all—we have no reason to believe that if the new Senator expresses himself at Washington as he has in Oregon—that he will escape a sojourn at Fort La Fayette. What an additional stigma that would be put on our State?

We have made these remarks because they are due to the loyal members of the Senate, and they are due to our people. A large majority of the citizens of Oregon are for the Union. They have been wronged beyond measure, by this appointment. But, thank God, Oregon will submit only a few months to the degradation which she now feels and acknowledges.

THE CHICAGO POST.—Occasionally do we see in disunion sheets, extracts said to have been taken from the Chicago Post, with the fact that the Post was the organ of the late Senator, Douglas. The last statement is correct, as also another, that the following article was taken from the Chicago Post.

"Douglas' plan to save the Democratic party was that the Democrats should run this war, as they had run every other war since the foundation of this Union; in fact, make it a Democratic war, and fight it with all the powers of the nation, and if necessary, to sustain a standing army in every one of the rebel States, and by the bayonet enforce obedience to the laws. Pierce, with regular troops, enforced the laws in Boston, why should Lincoln not do the same thing in Charleston? He was for dropping all local issues and controversies until after the war was closed, and then in a Union preserved, he was for raising once more the old Democratic banner, inscribed with the names of a hundred battles for that Union, and again dispute with the rebel political colony the contest at the ballot box."

Correspondence of the Portland Advertiser.

The Legislature of Virginia [illegible] Fort Pickens [illegible] Wheeling [illegible] and Lee, and forced to a general [illegible] Assembly passed through the streets [illegible] troops flew to the rifle [illegible] cause, but the words re-echoed [illegible] ment. JIM LANE'S BRIGADE.—Complaints were made that this brigade indulged freely and [illegible] loss. If [illegible] it will be disbanded. Lane says it is not so.

RYE AND WHISKY IN THE SOUTH.—The Confederates use rye in Richmond as a substitute for coffee, at $8 per bushel. Common whisky brings eighty cents a gallon, in New Orleans. Usual price, twenty cents. Nearly a million dollars' worth of brandy, designed to be smuggled into New Orleans, has been seized and confiscated in New York.

REV. CUMMINGS.—No reliance can be placed on his reported death. At the last accounts, with his followers, he was at Fort Walker, in Arkansas, waiting there to join Price, who was in rapid retreat in that direction.

A RECEPTION.—On the advance to Jefferson City, in company with officers on horseback, Secretary Cameron was hunted for a reception. He accepted and away he flew leaving all the party.

CAMERON REVIEWS TROOPS.—At Syracuse he reviewed McKinstry's division of 7,000 men; made a short speech, and left in half a day on a hasty return to Washington.

A ROUSING STORY FROM RICHMOND.—The Richmond Examiner of Sept. 24th has this extraordinary item of news: Advices received here yesterday from the Maryland shore give us the account of the shooting of 400 mutineers in the City of Washington, by order of Gen. McClellan. The cause for this terrible expedient is said to have been the disobedience of the Yankee troops to obey the commands of the officers (as they certainly did in the late affair at Leesburg) to advance upon the Confederates. This intelligence is derived from sources of testimony which are fully credited in official quarters.

Accounts have also been received of the arrest by the Lincoln Government of Senators Pearce and Kennedy, of Maryland.

KENTUCKY.—Messrs. Speed and Smith have obtained 17,000 Enfield rifles from the East, to arm the Union men. It is fortunate for Kentucky that Mr. Lincoln knows and appreciates Mr. Speed. In his early life Mr. Speed lived in Springfield, Ill., for six or seven years, and during all that time he and President Lincoln were on the most intimate terms, and over four years they were roommates. The most intimate relations have always existed between them, and they are now said to be as intimate and cordial as brothers. It is fortunate for Kentucky, in this hour of peril, that one of her Sons is known to the head of the Federal Government to be a prudent and wise man.

Resolutions will no doubt be introduced in Congress early in December next, for the expulsion of John C. Breckinridge, of Kentucky, from the Senate, and Henry May, of Maryland, H. L. Burnett, of Kentucky, and John W. Reid, of Missouri, from the House of Representatives. [Among these are the names of the signers of a protest against the acts of Congress published in the Portland Advertiser.]

All the coopers of Charleston have been engaged in making water-tight kegs and barrels, to be used at Fort Sumter. They are to be filled with fresh water, so that if communication with Charleston is cut off, they will not perish for water until three thousand casks full are exhausted.

GOOD ADVICE.—The entire Catholic clergy of the city, by concerted action, have advised all unemployed men in their congregations to enlist in General Fremont's army.—Chicago Tribune.

Henry A. Reave, Editor of the Greenport (L. I.) Republican, is on a visit to Fort Lafayette. The reasonable character of his sentiments, as published in his paper, led him to that watering place.

Rev. E. R. Geary has gone east to procure machinery for the Linn county woolen manufactory.

A dispatch from San Francisco of the 29th ult. says a committee are making arrangements for a grand demonstration in honor of John Wesley, the father of American Methodist Fellowship.

Gen. Shields declines the offer of a brigadier-generalship, on account of his distrust in his physical powers.

The Marysville Appeal says: "A gentleman lately from Brownsville, Texas, says that since the session inauguration nothing has been doing at that place or any other point on the Rio Grande. The citizens' militia parades; stores are closed, no drilling, firing and sound, steamers tied up, and 'nothing stirring but stagnation.' The secessionists have given it a good time of it."

The motto of the Massachusetts Democrats is—"Separation never, Union forever"—to express the purpose of the party now, and, it is believed, its destiny.

The Oregon Unionist should be called the Oregon Disunionist, as it U. S. Government and the Abolition Government of Lincoln, and argues that the rebels are more lawabiding than our own Administration!—Marysville Appeal.

MRS. PARTINGTON VISITS THE UNITED Friend.—"Did the guard present arms to you, Mrs. Partington?" asked the commissary's lady as she entered the room at [illegible].

"You mean the sentry," said she smiling. "I have had a [illegible] that I do assure you. [illegible] under [illegible] and [illegible] a soldier. You asked me if the guard presented arms? He didn't [illegible] his face did, and asked me if I would not [illegible] a tent as well. I told him that I [illegible] both inside and outside, when he politely [illegible] his chateau and left me."

The commissary presented a hard [illegible] stool, upon which she reposed herself.

"This is one of the seats of war, I [illegible]," she said. "Oh, what a hard [illegible] soldier is subjected to. I don't wonder much at the hardened influence of a soldier's life."

"What is that for?" said she, as the report of the cannon saluted her ear. "I hope they ain't firing on my own account."

There was a soft tone in her voice as she spoke, and she was interrupted by the [illegible] Governor, who had just arrived upon the field.

"Dear me," said she, "how cruel it must be to make the old gentleman come away down here, when he is so feeble that he has to take his staff with him wherever he goes."

She was so affected at the idea that she had to take a few drops of white wine to restore her equilibrium, and to counteract the effect from the "tainted field."

[illegible] desirous of securing [illegible] unfortunate enough to be similarly [illegible] to that of their suffering [illegible] to this publicly express [illegible] L. J. Czapkay, for the [illegible] [illegible] Being down by the [illegible] to the various practices of [illegible] [illegible] with [illegible] depressed in body and mind, [illegible] to perform even the most trifling duty imposed upon me in [illegible] life. I sought the advice of many [illegible] whose first step was to [illegible] my disease as of little [illegible] [illegible] after a few weeks, and in several [illegible] other treatment. I found, to my astonishment, that instead of relief, my sufferings were [illegible] to their fortune; and being told by [illegible] disease [illegible] principally confined to the brain, however [illegible] of little consequence. I despaired of ever regaining my health, strength and energy; and as a last resort, and with [illegible] hand [illegible] called upon Dr. Czapkay. [illegible] the [illegible] by case, I received some medicine [illegible] immediately received [illegible] of the dull pain and [illegible] head. I encouraged by the result, I resolved to place myself [illegible] under his care, and by a strict observance of his directions and advice, my head became clear, and my [illegible] [illegible] the constant pain in my back and [illegible] weakness of my limbs, the nervous reaction of my body on the slightest alarm or excitement, the [illegible] and the forbearing dread distrust and want of confidence [illegible] the unpleasantness to study, and want of memory, the frightful evening sweat at times pleasurable dreams at night, followed by involuntary discharges, have all disappeared, and in fact, in two months after having [illegible] the doctor, I felt as if inspired by a new life—[illegible] but a short time ago I contemplated to end by my own hand. With the view to guard the unfortunate from falling into the snares of incompetent quacks, I deem it my duty to offer this testimony to the merit and skill of Dr. Czapkay, and recommend him to all who may stand in need of medical advice, being assured by my own experience, that any under his care will be radically and permanently cured.

But the night you might be able to do something to ease the pain in my back and head, and sleep that night, so that I would not get excited and tremble at everything. Now that you know what I expected, you may judge of my satisfaction at my complete recovery, both [illegible] symptoms and the removal of those sores and blotches on my skin, and the ulcers from my throat, and the [illegible] pains of those confessions, which you said were [illegible] sores. I can hardly tell you which is the greatest, my joy or my surprise, for except not being able to [illegible] as well as any man can [illegible]
